

CONTINUING A TRADITION OF EXCELLENCE

It's all change – but no change at A. H. Brooks & Co. this year.

The 13th March 2008 saw previous Senior Partner Anne Morris step down as the Practice's only equity partner in favour of a consultancy role within the Practice. Stepping into her shoes are new equity partners Greta Williamson and Simon Chiverton.

Greta, 37, who joined the firm in 1994 as a trainee, has risen through the ranks to purchase the business along with Simon, 36, who joined the Practice 5 years ago having worked in city law firms in Manchester and Sheffield.

Greta explains, "having worked in the business from the bottom I very much feel part of the business and have seen it develop and expand over the last 14 years. A. H. Brooks & Co. has a dedicated and loyal team of staff who work incredibly hard to deliver a high level of service to both our private and commercial clients. Simon and I jumped at the opportunity to take over the business which already had a strong tradition of excellence and we have every intention of building upon this".

Simon is keen to keep abreast of the latest technology to ensure all the firm's clients benefit from the speed, efficiency and value technology brings to its services. Simon explains, "being able to communicate with clients both quickly and efficiently is expected nowadays, although being able to meet face to face will always be our preferred method of communication".

Moving forward, Greta and Simon are both looking to expand the Practice's second office in Cheadle which has been open for nearly two years. The business in both Leek and Cheadle continues to go from strength to strength despite the economic downturn.
